27.(10分)Food between China and western countries are very different. We Chinese may spend half of our life time on making and eating food. First, Chinese people choose food very carefully. They often try to use fresh material to make food. For example, people who live near the sea often eat fresh fish. Second, Chinese have a lot of ideas and skills for cooking. We can cook a chicken in over ten ways. That's why Chinese food is so popular in the world.

In western countries like England or America, people don't have fresh food because they buy their food from supermarkets where the food may stay for many days. They would also enjoy fast food like hamburgers and potato chips. They are unhealthy to human body. Western people are very good at making cakes and chocolates. They are very sweet but they make you become fat quickly.

There are some other differences. Chinese people use chopsticks while western people use forks and knives. Chinese people only have three meals a day but western people will have more. For example, they have afternoon tea. If you are a housewife and have a lot of time, you may also have morning tea.

(1) How long may Chinese spend on making and eating their food

- A. Half an hour a day
