范文一

Dear teachers and classmates,

Today, I feel so privileged to deliver a speech themed at creating a low-carbon campus, starting with each of us.

The recent years have witnessed several undesirable phenomena in our campus that are not consistent with low-carbon and environmental protection principles, such as lights and fans left on in empty classrooms, and students using disposable cups and plastic bottles excessively.

It is prime time that we commenced with small actions to reverse the disturbing situation. First and foremost, we are supposed to cultivate the public awareness of energy conservation. For instance, always remember to switch off all the electric appliances when leaving a room. Besides, it is of vital significance to bring reusable water bottles and cups to reduce plastic waste. Additionally, we can use both sides of paper to save resources and facilitate recycling programs within our school. What's more, we might as well substitute riding a bike for driving a car for the sake of consuming relatively less fuel. Furthermore, it is sensible to plant more trees which can absorb carbon-dioxide.

Accordingly, I call on each of you to join me in this endeavor. Let's take the initiative to green our surroundings and make our campus a beacon of sustainability. Once everyone accommodates to low-carbon lifestyle, our campus will take on a brand new look.

Thank you!

范文二

Dear teachers and fellow students,

I'm excited to share with you my thoughts on creating a low carbon campus. First of all, we must acknowledge that our school still has many areas that do not align with the low carbon environmental concept. For example, unnecessary waste of paper, misuse of electricity, and the neglect of recycling bins are all common occurrences.

To make a positive change, we should start with small actions around us. For instance, we can reduce paper waste by using both sides of the paper when taking notes, turning off lights and electrical appliances when they are not needed, and actively participating in recycling programs.

I encourage everyone to take action and join hands to make our campus a greener and more sustainable place. Let's all play our part in building a low carbon campus, starting from ourselves. Thank you!

范文三

Dear Schoolmates,

As a member of Chenguang Middle School, I feel it a privilege to address an issue that concerns us all—our commitment to a low-carbon campus. Despite our continuous efforts, we still witness phenomena that contradict the principles of low-carbon living, such as excessive use of disposable items and wasteful consumption of water and electricity.

It is high time that we commenced with the small actions. Always remember to turn off unnecessary lights, use digital notes instead of paper, and recycle diligently. Actually, each of us can be a change-maker by making these simple adjustments to our daily lives and small changes in our daily routines can make an unbelievably great difference.

Thus I appeal to each and every one of you to join me in this endeavor. Let's take the initiative to reduce our carbon footprint and make our campus a beacon of sustainability. Together, we can transform our campus into a greener, cleaner place.

Thank you.

范文五

Ladies and gentlemen,

Good morning. My name is Lijin. Today, I'm honored to talk about creating a low-carbon campus. In our school, we often see lights and fans left on in empty classrooms and students using disposable cups and plastic bottles. There are various ways to go green in our daily life. Firstly and most importantly, we should realize the significance of environmental protection and the pressing need to embrace a low-carbon lifestyle and reduce our carbon footprint. Secondly, we are supposed to practice green living, like turning off lights and fans when leaving a room, using reusable bottles and taking public transportation. Additionally, programs like "Lights Off Hour" could be initiated, or double-sided printing should be encouraged, both of which would save resources. On behalf of Chenguang High School, I am earnestly calling for your active participation in environmental protection. This speech is not just a call to action, but also a reminder of our shared responsibility towards sustainable development. Let's start from now on and from each of us. Thanks for your listening.

Dear Chris,

Happy to hear from you. I am glad to know that you are passionate about learning Chinese, and I would be more than happy to explain the meaning of the phrase “Huo Lei Feng” to you. “Huo Lei Feng” is a Chinese term that refers to someone who selflessly helps others and is always ready to lend a helping hand. It originates from the story of Lei Feng, a young Chinese soldier known for his dedication to serving the people. He is a retired teacher who spends most of his time volunteering at a local community center. He helps elderly people with their daily tasks, teaches children who cannot afford tuition, and actively participates in various charity events. He truly embodies the spirit of “Huo Lei Feng” by making a positive impact on the lives of others. I am glad that you are interested in understanding more about Chinese culture and language. Learning Chinese will not only help you communicate with native speakers but also allow you to explore the rich history and traditions of China.
