Learning English Beyond the Classroom

Nowadays , with the growing popularity of smartphones and computers, a significant number of students are choosing to learn English beyond the classroom in various ways.

It can easily be seen from the chart that the percentage of students who prefer listening to English songs and watching English movies is 65% and 50% respectively. By comparison, those choosing to read English books and visit English learning websites only account for 18% and 12%.

The results suggest that most students would rather study English in a more entertaining way. From my perspective, we should take reading English books into consideration, thus laying a solid foundation for English.
