九、阅读理解。

24. (5分)

Dale was a young boy and had a talent for running. He was always trying to find someone to compete with. One day, two young boys accepted his challenge. At last, Dale won without any difficulty. Dale felt excited. However, Dale's teacher Mr Smith kept quiet.

"Another race, another race!" shouted Dale. Mr Smith asked him to have a group race. There should be a boy and a girl in each group. The right leg of the girl and the left leg of the boy should be together. The race started and Dale tried his best to run fast. Unluckily, both Dale and the girl in his group fell down because the girl was not as fast as him.

The girl cried sadly when other groups passed by. But Dale and the girl stood up and worked together to finish the race! As they got to the finish line, the students shouted loudly. Mr Smith smiled, too. Though Dale's group didn't win the race, Dale was happy because he learned a lot from it.

We need competitions in life, but being a real winner doesn't always mean being the first. It also means never giving up although there is no hope to be the first.

根据语篇内容，判断下列句子正误，正确的在答题卡上将"T"涂黑，错误的在答题卡上将"F"涂黑。

- (1) Mr Smith was excited after Dale won the boys. _____
- (2) The girl didn't run as fast as Dale in the group race. _____
- (3) Dale didn't give up and finished the race. _____
- (4) Mr Smith wasn't happy when Dale couldn't win the group race. _____
- (5) The story tells us that a real winner needs to always be the first. _____

27. (10分) The world is full of amazing things. Let's see China's amazing technology! In our modern age, we do not think much about how our technology works. We are so used to get a map of our location on our phone screen. But how do our phones know where in the world we are and in which direction we are going? It is all thanks to the satellites (卫星) in space that help our phones calculate our position. In Europe, people have the Galileo system (系统). In Russia, they have GLONASS. In the USA, people use GPS. China has the BeiDou Navigation Satellite System (BDS).

The BDS in use today is better than the first version (版本) of the system, which was sent into space in 2000. The present version has better technology and more satellites. The system is not finished, though. When it is completed, there will be lots of BDS satellites. In the future, those satellites will allow us to discover the position of objects with millimetre accuracy (精确度): that is ten times more accurate than GPS.

Even though more satellites are being added to the system, the BDS has already been put to use. More than 40,000 Chinese fishing boats are using the system now. The BDS is being used on land as well.

Although the BDS is developed in China, the developers have said that "China's BeiDou is the world's BeiDou, and they are actively developing international cooperation (合作). Developers predict that the system will not only grow in popularity within China, but overseas (海外) as well. And when the system is complete and fully in use in the years to come, the BDS will undoubtedly bring lots of advantages to China and the rest of the world.

(1) What does the underlined word "calculate" probably mean? _____

- A. 指望
- B. 计算
- C. 打算

(2) How does the writer show the changes in the BDS in Paragraph 2? _____

- A. By comparing conditions.
- B. By listing numbers.
- C. By telling stories.

(3) Which of the following can we learn from the passage? _____

- A. The BDS has already become popular both at home and abroad.

- B. People around the world use the same system to locate positions.
- C. The whole world will take advantages of the BDS in several years.

(4) Where do you probably read this passage? _____

- A. In a storybook.
- B. In an art book.
- C. In a science book.

(5) What is the best title for the passage? _____

- A. Next up, the BDS
- B. Get away, the BDS
- C. Slow down, the BDS
