题 目: A Study of Lexical Cohesion in College

English Writing

大学英语写作中词汇衔接的研究

Abstract

As one of the five major skills in English, English writing plays an important role in English learning. Writing is a difficult point in English learning, and cohesion and coherence, as important criterion for the overall quality of a text, should be paid more attention to. By introducing textual cohesion theory and paying attention to lexical cohesion strategy, students can pay attention to the correct collocation and use of words in the writing process, so as to cultivate and improve their writing ability. Lexical cohesion plays an important role in discourse coherence. This paper discusses the important role of lexical cohesion in improving college students' English writing skills, and discusses the problems and causes in the use of cohesive devices. This will provide some valuable references for understanding the practical significance of lexical cohesion and improving students' writing level.
