While other children were just starting their ABCs, three-year-old Mark Swallow was already reading Shakespeare and Charles Dickens. By the age of seven he was speaking fluent French and German and studying both Latin and Greek. Now, at the age of 12, Mark has just started a university degree in English literature.

Mark and other child geniuses will be the subject of a new documentary series which takes a look into the lives of these remarkable children and their families. Last week, I visited my friend Pete in his new home, where he lives with his wife and his daughter. Pete used to spend his holidays traveling around the world—visiting the pyramids in Egypt or scuba diving(水肺潜水)in the Caribbean(加勒比海). Nowadays, he prefers to spend his holidays and weekends making his house look more beautiful. Like hundreds of thousands of other British people, he has found the joy of DIY ( do it yourself home repairs. This means that if there is anything that needs repairing around the house, he will try to do the job himself.)

Pete showed me his new kitchen, which he put together himself, and his newly-painted walls. I asked him where he got the idea to do these things. He told me that his favorite source(来源)of ideas is a DIY program on TV.

This got me thinking about how popular DIY programs are in the UK. Each main channel(频道) has at least one home or garden makeover show. There are even channels totally on the subject. I think it's not really surprising that DIY programs are so popular. There are two common sayings in Britain—"an Englishman's home is his castle(城堡)" and "there's no place like home"—which show how important our houses are to us. With the social changes of the last ten years or so, many people can't afford to buy bigger houses. So they are looking at how they can make their houses better without spending a lot of money. DIY, clearly, is the perfect choice.

36. Pete usually spent his holidays _____ in the past.

- A. traveling around the world
- B. visiting Egypt
- C. diving in the Caribbean
- D. building a new house

37. What do most British people enjoy doing nowadays ?

- A. Finishing their work at home.                      B. Doing everything on their own.
 C. Spending their spare time at home.                D. Doing the home repairs themselves.
38. How did Pete manage to make his house more beautiful ?
 A. He asked house builders for advice.            B. He got help from a DIY TV program.
 C. He called some of his friends for help.        D. He paid workers to do the housework.
39. What does the underlined word “makeover” in Paragraph 3 probably mean ?
 A. sell a new garden                                      B. buy a garden
 C. make the garden better                              D. pull down a garden
40. DIY programs have become popular because _____.
 A. other programs are too boring to watch
 B. people are spending more time watching TV

A well-known film director

One of the most well-known directors of our time is Stephen Spielberg. He was born in Cincinnati on 18 December, 1946. His father was an engineer and his mother was a performing pianist. His sister, Anne Spielberg, became a screenwriter who wrote the stories for many famous films.

Stephen had always wanted to be a director ever since he was a young boy. When he was just 13 years old, he made a 40-minute film. It won a local competition. Three years later, he produced a film called Firelight, which made one hundred dollars' profit (利润) at the cinema in his hometown. Many of the ideas from this film were later used for one of his most famous films called Close Encounters of the Third Kind. When he was 18 years old, he wanted to go to film school so that he could improve his skills and become an even better director. Unluckily, he was unsuccessful in getting a place at this school so he went to a university in California to study English. Even though he had failed to get into the school he wanted to go to, he didn't let this stop him following his dream to become a great director.
