2. Recently, China has announced the list of the first five national parks.

Each of them is divided into two parts—the core (核心) protection area and the general control area. In the core protection area, only research and surveillance (监视) in science are allowed. And the general control area is open to the public, allowing travel activities such as camping and hiking. In the future, national parks are expected to be natural classrooms. People can learn about different kinds of animals and plants through eco-friendly (环保的) travel activities.

The national parks can also be helpful to local people. The building of these national parks provides many jobs for local people. People living in or around the parks can work as park rangers (护林员) and guides. They can also sell some eco-friendly things with local color. So their yearly incomes (收入) will grow a lot.

Then let's take a look at the five national parks.

Three River-Source National Park on the Qinghai-Tibet Plateau (青藏高原) is the largest national park in China. Because it is home to the sources of the Yangtze, Yellow and Lancang rivers, people call it "China's water tower".

Northeast China Tiger and Leopard (豹) National Park is in Heilongjiang and Jilin provinces. It covers an area of 14, 100 square kilometers. It is our country's biggest and only place for wild Siberian tigers and Amur leopards to live in.

Wuyi Mountain National Park in Fujian Province is a UNESCO natural and cultural heritage site (遗址). The forest makes up over 96 percent of the park. The park is the paradise of birds, the kingdom of makes and world of insects. You can also see the Danxia landform there.

Giant Panda National Park connects panda habitats in Sichuan Shaanxi and Gansu provinces. Inside the park are more than 1,600 wild giant pandas. They make up over 70 percent of the pandas in China.

Hainan Tropical Rainforest National Park is the largest tropical forest in China. There are more than 400 kinds of plants that can only be found in Hainan. The world's only 35 Hainan gibbons (长臂猿) live there.

【1】What can we know from paragraph 3?

- A. Building the national parks only needs rangers and guides.
- B. Farming makes local people improve their yearly incomes.
- C. Visitors can buy anything with local color in the national parks.
- D. Local people can get many advantages from the national parks.

If you and your friend like to eat out, first you pay and the other pays the next-time. You are alternating paying.

If you go to the movies on alternate Saturdays, you go on one Saturday, but not the other Saturday.

If you have no alternative, you have no other choice.

Learn as many root words as possible in the language you are studying. Then use your “rooting for words” skills. Like any new skill, practice and hard work are always paid back.

【1】 If Jim and Lily go to the movies, which one below is “alternating paying”?

- A. They each pay half.
- B. Jim pays every time.
- C. They take turns to pay.
- D. Their parents pay for them.

【2】 How does the writer explain his ideas about root words?

- A. By giving a fact.
- B. By taking an example.
- C. By telling a story.
- D. By having a discussion.

【3】 “Sen” from the Latin word means ‘old’. Which word uses this Latin root?

- A. My brother is my senior by two years.
- B. He was ill so he was absent from school.
- C. A criminal was sentenced to death by law.
- D. 60 students were present at the sports meeting.

【4】 Which of the following shows the structure of the passage?

(①=paragraph 1 ②=paragraph 2, ...)

Dear Chen Xingxing,

Great to hear you are coming to the USA! I do hope you can stop by and visit us in the Big Apple—a popular name for New York City. There are so many things to see and do here. It would take a lifetime to list them all: Chinatown, Wall Street, Central Park, to name only a few. But knowing you as I do, I'd suggest walking through Midtown Manhattan. It is very popular in the USA and just can't be missed!

People often say that no visit to New York City is complete without a trip to Broadway! Broadway with its cafés, street performers and colorful signs really represents New York's loud spirit! As Broadway is the heart of the American theater industry, it's at night when it truly comes alive. Broadway is well-known for its big theaters. They show Shakespeare, modern plays, dance shows or musicals—take your pick! With your love of singing and interest in drama, I'd recommend a musical. It's a great and moving experience that I'm sure you would love—a bit like Peking opera! Many musicals are based on classic stories like Les Misérables or Peter Pan, and they might even inspire you to read the books, too!

My big news is that I am going to China on vacation this winter. I am looking for places of interest in China. Can you recommend some to me?

See you soon!

Leslie
