ABSTRACT

In recent years, China's economy has been developing at a very fast speed with the continuous improvement of the economic system and the management of China's market economic environment, which is to a certain extent thanks to effective business management. As an important economic means, business management can greatly promote the development of China's economy if reasonably used. Government departments should realize the positive role of industrial and commercial administration, take industrial and commercial administration as an important means of macro-control, promote the formation of a good market economic environment, and make China's economic development in line with the world.

Keywords:Market economy; business administration, promoting function
