IV 阅读理解。

Most children don't enjoy doing chores. They like playing computer games rather than cleaning the rooms. But in Australia, Jim and Robert's mother, Mrs. Black, has good and proper methods to get their children to do housework.

Here is an example.

“Mom, have you worked out next week's chores? Let Jim and me choose the cards. I can't wait. It's fun!”

When Robert shouted out, his mother had already put all the cards on their big table. On the cards, there are some words like these, “sweep the floor, clean your bedroom, help Mom cook, wash vegetables, make beds, feed the fish, cut the wood, clean the bathroom” and many others. Jim and Robert chose two cards for each day from Monday to Friday. Then they would hang them on the weekday task board. Jim likes to clean the bathroom, so he picked up “wash vegetables” and Robert chose “feed the fish”. Soon the two boys were happy to take away all the cards.

To help the children do chores, their mother thought hard and came up with this idea. Of course, the parents did the chores at weekends and left Jim and Robert two days free.

Should parents pay kids to do chores?

This helps kids know that how hard it is to make money. They also get to know the real value(价值) of money. For example, I give my daughter Susan $1 each time for doing the dishes or cleaning the living room. She saves the money and spends it on her favorite books.

—Catherine

Rewards(奖励) are always helpful in developing good habits. It's important to provide some rewards for kids doing chores. It could be money, something fun on the weekend or just words like “Nice work on the dishes!”

What's going to be their motivation(动机) to keep the rooms clean when children move out to live alone? I drive to my children's flat once a week and give them $20 if they do well. They need to learn that the only real reward for doing chores is having a clean home.

—Judy

Doing chores without getting paid teaches kids the true meaning of hard work. My son always helps sweep the floor without getting paid. In my opinion, if you pay kids to do chores, they might stop helping unless they're being paid. Also, kids might start asking for more money to do simple chores. Is this really what you want?
